OVERHEARD AT A HOLIDAY PARTY

9:28 PM

Man: I know what you're thinking: yes, I do my crosswords in pen. So, wanna' get out of here?

Woman 1: I have a boyfriend.

10:04 PM

Man: I'm a bit of a bad boy. Got kicked out of the same Cracker Barrel twice last Christmas. Police reports are back at my place though...

Woman 2: Absolutely not.

11:17 PM

Man: Hey gorgeous. Why don't you come over? We'll eat brisket, put LSD in our eggnog, and watch Martha Stewart clips at ½ speed.

Woman 3: Sounds great. I'll call an Uber.

Man: Oh. Uh, can you give me a minute?

Woman 3: Sure thing, stud.

11:18 PM

Man (on phone): Mom? Your Martha Stewart line worked. What happens now...

Man (on phone): Really?

The holidays are a time when you can be selfish and not give a shit about it. Even if you tell friends and family, "I don't want gifts this year. I want you all to donate to an abandoned cat shelter on Staten Island instead," we all know deep down you're still craving a nice present.

Whether you're the giver or the receiver of said wrapped bundles of joy, gift giving is never easy. Here are some suggestions for all the (arguably) relevant people in your life:

DAD: Forwarded email about student loans payments

SISTER: That dress you "borrowed" 6 years ago

BROTHER: Tattered, used copy of How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying

ROOMMATE: Annotated copy of your Venmo transaction history (or a sponge so they can clean their fucking dishes)

SIGNIFICANT OTHER: 1 ticket to see Rogue One

TINDER DATE (disregard above statement, or not): A reply

Happy shopping!
